Before You Apply

Permanent Residence under the Federal Skilled Worker Class

The Federal Skilled Worker Class

Immigration has always helped to make Canada's economy strong and prosperous. To continue this tradition, Canada encourages skilled worker applications for Permanent Residence from people with skills, education and work experience that will contribute to the Canadian economy.

Who may use this application package

Applications for Permanent Residence under the Federal Skilled Worker Class can be submitted by foreign nationals who are skilled workers and professionals who do not fit in one of the other classes described below.

Am I eligible?

Federal Skilled Worker applications submitted on or after February 27, 2008, will be placed into processing if they meet the criteria in one or more of the three categories described below.

Application Category

Choose the Category in the table below which corresponds to your situation. This chart describes the three categories available to you.

Category	If you meet the criteria in one of the categories below, your application will be placed into processing if...
1	you have at least one year of continuous full time or equivalent paid work experience in the last ten years in one or more of the occupational categories identified in the Ministerial Instructions. Note: The list of occupations can be found on our website at: www.cic.gc.ca/english/immigrate/skilled/apply-who-instructions.asp
2	you have an offer of arranged employment in Canada. The employment offer should be: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• in writing,• indeterminate in duration, and• meet the arranged employment factor described in this guide.
3	you are a temporary foreign worker or an international student residing legally in Canada for at least 12 months immediately before submitting your application. Note: If you are subject to an enforceable removal order you are not considered to be legally residing in Canada and would therefore not meet the eligibility criteria for this category.

National Occupation
Classification
(NOC)

The National Occupational Classification (NOC) is the official classification system of occupations in the Canadian economy. It describes duties, skills, aptitudes, and work settings for occupations in the Canadian labour market.

The NOC 2006 can be accessed on-line at: www5.hrsdc.gc.ca/NOC-CNP/app/index.aspx?lc=e

Determining your NOC
category

Follow these steps to determine if your work experience is in an occupation that meets the minimum requirement to apply under the Federal Skilled Workers:

STEP 1. Go to the NOC website at www5.hrsdc.gc.ca/NOC/English/NOC/2006/Welcome.aspx

STEP 2. Click on "Search the NOC..."

STEP 3. Follow the instructions to find the NOC category that matches your work experience.

The initial description and list of main duties must match what you did in a job that you held for one (1) year in the last ten (10) years.

If the description does not match your work experience, then you might not have the experience required to apply as a skilled worker.

Look through the NOC list to see if your experience matches another occupation. Check all the jobs you have had in the past 10 years to see if you have at least one continuous year of full-time (or part-time equivalent) paid work experience in one or more jobs that will qualify you as a skilled worker.

STEP 4. Consult the list of eligible occupations.

Once you have determined the NOC category or categories that match(es) your work experience, consult the list of occupations that are eligible for processing as per the Ministerial Instructions.

Note: If none of your occupations is on this list, you do not meet the criteria to be placed into processing under Category 1. If you are applying in Category 2 or 3, you need to provide your NOC category but do not need to be in one of the occupations listed in the Ministerial Instructions.

I am not eligible

If you do not meet the eligibility criteria in any of the three categories, there is no point in submitting an application as a Federal Skilled Worker at this time. Check the other classes more suited to your situation. Also check our website regularly for changes in the selection criteria.

I am eligible,
what is the next step?

Once you have determined that you are eligible for processing, you must also meet the minimum requirements for Federal Skilled Workers, meet the minimum funds requirement and obtain sufficient points under the selection factors.

What are the minimum requirements?

All applicants must meet the following minimum requirements to apply as a skilled worker:

- You must have at least one continuous year of full-time, paid work experience or the equivalent in part-time continuous employment
 - You must have had this experience within the last 10 years
 - Your work experience must be Skill Type 0 (managerial occupations) or Skill Level A (professional occupations) or B (technical occupations and skilled trades) on the Canadian National Occupational Classification (NOC)

What are the selection factors?

Your application to come to Canada as a skilled worker will also be assessed against a point system consisting of six selection factors. The six selection factors are:

Factor 1	Education	Maximum 25 points
Factor 2	Ability in English and or French	Maximum 24 points
Factor 3	Experience	Maximum 21 points
Factor 4	Age	Maximum 10 points
Factor 5	Arranged employment in Canada	Maximum 10 points
Factor 6	Adaptability	Maximum 10 points
Total		Maximum 100 points
Pass Mark		67 points

You can assess your qualifications using the skilled worker self-assessment test from Citizenship and Immigration Canada. The test is available on our website. The current pass mark is 67 points for all factors combined.

If your score is the same or higher than the pass mark, then you may qualify to immigrate to Canada as a skilled worker. Review the information about immigrating to Canada as a skilled worker and decide if you want to apply.

Below is a detailed description of all factors that are to be assessed.

Factor 1
Education
(maximum of 25 points)

Points are awarded for earned educational credentials as well as the number of years of full-time studies or full-time equivalent studies. To be awarded points, you must meet both stated criteria.

Full-time studies: At least 15 hours of instruction per week during the academic year. This includes any period of workplace training that forms part of the course.

Full-time equivalent studies: If you completed a program of study on a part-time or accelerated basis, count the length of time it would have taken to complete the program on a full-time basis.

Use the chart below to determine your points. If you have not completed the number of years of study that correspond to your highest educational credential, award yourself points based on the number of years of study.

Example 1: If you have a Master’s degree but have completed only 16 years of full-time study, award yourself 22 points.

Example 2: If you have a four-year Bachelor's degree and have completed 14 or more years of study, award yourself 20 points.

Master’s or PhD AND at least 17 years of full-time or full-time equivalent study	25
Two or more university degrees at the Bachelor's level AND at least 15 years of full-time or full-time equivalent study	22
A three-year diploma, trade certificate or apprenticeship AND at least 15 years of full-time or full-time equivalent study	22

- listen

You should not submit your test results or written submission to the Centralized Intake Office (CIO) in Sydney, Nova Scotia Canada. If the application is recommended for further processing, the test results or written submission should be submitted to the responsible Visa Office.

However, it is recommended that all applicants using this category complete their language test(s) or their written submission before submitting their application to the CIO in Sydney so that they know in advance how many language points they will attain on the selection grid.

Note: The descriptions above are meant to provide you with an informal self-assessment only.

Proof of Language Proficiency

At the time of submission of your application to a Visa Office, you will need to:

- submit language test results from a designated testing agency or
- establish your proficiency through a written explanation and supporting documentation.

CIC strongly advises that you provide the results of a language test if English or French is not your first language. Written submissions are only recommended for applicants whose first language is English or French.

Official Language Testing

Take a language proficiency test from a designated testing agency

Steps	Action
1	Make an arrangement for testing and pay the test costs. A list of designated testing agencies can be found at: www.cic.gc.ca/english/immigrate/skilled/language-testing.asp
2	Submit the assessment results with your application. Note: When submitting test results, you will have the benefit of knowing how many points you will be awarded before submitting your application.
3	Your test results must not be more than one year old at the time that you submit your application.

Note: Test results will be used as conclusive evidence of your language proficiency.

Using your test results

Once you have taken a language test from a designated testing agency, you can determine how many points you will be awarded for language proficiency.

Providing other written evidence

Establish your proficiency levels through a written explanation and supporting documentation

If you believe that you can clearly demonstrate your level of proficiency through a written submission, follow the instructions in the table below.

CIC strongly advises that you only choose this option if your first language is English or French.

Steps:	Results:
Your written submission must demonstrate your language proficiency in all four abilities: speaking, listening, reading and writing. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Your written submission must clearly detail all of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Your education and training in English or French; 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A CIC officer will review the evidence you include with your application. • The officer will assess whether the evidence supports the level of proficiency you claim for each ability separately (speaking,

Supporting documents should include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Degrees, diplomas, certificates and transcripts of all education completed in English or French; ○ Documentation that supports your work experience in English or French, such as letters from employers, pay stubs, samples of your work, etc.; and ○ Any other evidence that proves that you have spent considerable time speaking, listening, reading and writing in an English or French speaking environment. 	listening, reading and writing). <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● CIC officers will not interview you to assess your proficiency levels. ● The evidence you submit must satisfy that your language proficiency for each ability separately corresponds to a benchmark referred to in Canadian Language Benchmarks 2000 for the English language and the Niveaux de compétence linguistique canadiens 2006. Note: You will not know in advance whether the evidence you submit will satisfy the officer that the level of language proficiency you claim corresponds to the required benchmark. That is why this option is only recommended for those whose first language is English or French.

Work experience
(maximum of 21 points)

You will earn points for the number of years you have spent in full-time (37.5 hours per week), paid work.

Minimum Work Experience Requirements

You must meet the following minimum work experience requirements to be eligible to apply as a skilled worker:

- You must have at least one continuous year of full-time, paid work experience or the equivalent in part-time continuous employment.
- Your work experience must be in an occupation of Skill Type 0, or Skill Level A or B of the Canadian National Occupational Classification (NOC). See below for instructions on determining the NOC category for your work experience.
- You must have had this experience within the last 10 years.

Determining Your NOC Category

To determine how many points you can earn for your work experience, go to the Occupational Descriptions page on the NOC website. Follow the instructions to find the NOC category that matches your work experience.

If the initial description and list of main duties match what you did at your last job(s), you can use this experience to earn points under the selection factors when you apply as a skilled worker.

If the description does not match your work experience, then you might not have the experience you need to apply as a skilled worker. Look through the NOC list to see if another occupation matches your experience. Check all the jobs you had in the past 10 years to see if you have at least one continuous year of work experience in a job that will qualify you as a skilled worker.

Note: Remember that you must have work experience in an occupation in Skill type 0 or Skill level A or B and that your experience must have occurred during the 10 years before the date of application.

If you do not meet the minimum work experience requirements, your application as a skilled worker will be refused.

Include any documents that support your claim. Note: If you are refused at this stage, the processing fees will not be refunded.

Do you have sufficient funds?

The Government of Canada does not provide financial support to new skilled worker immigrants.

You must show that you have enough money to support yourself and your family members after you arrive in Canada. The money must be available to support the costs of living for yourself and your family. The amount is an estimate of what you would require to support yourself and your family without employment or other income. You cannot borrow this money from another person.

The amount of money you need to support your family is determined by the size of your family. These amounts are updated every year. Check our website to make sure you have the most recent information.

We strongly recommend that you research the cost of living in the region of Canada where you intend to live. To make your establishment in Canada easier, bring as much money as possible with you to Canada.

Note: Persons with arranged employment in Canada do not have to meet the minimum funds required.

Working in Canada

Finding employment in Canada requires planning. You should obtain as much information as possible before you apply to immigrate. There is no guarantee that you will be able to work in your preferred occupation.

Although credential assessment and licensing are not requirements of the skilled worker application, you need to be aware of these issues when considering immigrating to Canada.

Please consult our website for some helpful sites on regulated and non-regulated occupations.

Regulated occupations	Non-regulated occupations
Twenty percent of people working in Canada work in occupations that are regulated to protect the health and safety of Canadians. Examples include nurses, engineers, electricians and teachers. Provincial and territorial regulatory bodies are responsible for establishing entry requirements for individual occupations recognizing prior credentials, training and experience and issuing licences required to practice. The recognition process varies among provinces and territories and among occupations. Recognition of qualifications and issuance of licenses can generally only be completed once in Canada. The process can take time. You may be asked to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• provide documentary evidence of your qualifications• undergo a language examination (which may differ from those required for immigration)• complete a technical exam (with accompanying fee)• do supervised work	For non-regulated occupations, there are no set requirements and there is no legal requirement to obtain a licence. The employer will set the standards and may very well request registration with a professional association.

Credential assessment

A credential assessment is advice on how qualifications from another country compare to Canadian qualifications. An assessment does not guarantee that:

- a regulatory body will issue you a licence to practice, or
- your credentials will be accepted by a Canadian employer

However, a credential assessment will help you understand the Canadian educational system and assist you with your job search.

You can obtain advice about your credentials from the Foreign Credentials

Referral Office. Consult their website at : www.credentials.gc.ca for more information.

Labour market information

Job opportunities and labour market conditions are different in each region of Canada. It is important to research conditions in the area in which you want to live.

Please consult the Working in Canada tool on our website for information on the Canadian labour market, job banks, and provincial and territorial labour market information

Step 1. Gather Documents

What documents are required?

Use the Document Checklist (IMM 5612) to assist you in gathering the necessary documentation for submitting your application to the Centralized Intake Office CIO, which is located in Sydney, Nova Scotia, Canada.

Note: Only the documents in this checklist should be submitted to the CIO. If your application is recommended for processing at a Visa Office, you will be required to submit a copy of your application to that office with a complete set of documents described in the Visa Office specific requirements at www.cic.gc.ca/english/information/applications/skilled-mission.asp

Consult the Visa Office specific requirements now to determine what documents you will need to provide once your application is recommended for processing at a Visa Office. If you are not prepared to submit full documentation to the Visa Office within 120 days do not apply now. Visa Offices are strictly enforcing the 120 day rule and will not provide extensions.

Medical requirements

The following advice is provided to help you prepare documents which will be required later in the application process by the visa office.

All applicants must undergo a medical examination.

You and your family members, whether they will be accompanying you or not, must undergo and pass a medical examination. To pass the medical examination you or your family members must not have a condition that:

- is a danger to public health or safety, or
- would cause excessive demand on health or social services in Canada.

Instructions

If a visa officer determines that you meet the selection criteria, medical instructions will be provided to you by the Canadian Visa Office. You will receive medical forms for yourself (and any family members), and instructions on how to access a list of doctors in your area who are authorized to conduct immigration medical examinations (see below). You cannot undergo the medical examination before you submit your application forms.

Exam validity

The medical examination results are valid for 12 months from the date of the first medical examination. If the processing of your application for permanent residence is not completed during this time, you will have to undergo another complete medical examination.

Authorized doctors

Your own doctor cannot do the medical examination. You must be examined by a physician on Canada's list of Designated Medical Practitioners which can be found at: www.cic.gc.ca/dmp-md/medical.aspx.

Note: The physician is only responsible for conducting a medical examination; he or she cannot give you any advice on the immigration process.

Police certificates

All applicants must submit police certificates/clearances as part of the application process.

Note: Do not submit your police certificates to the CIO. If your application is recommended by the CIO for further assessment, you will be required to submit the police certificates along with the full application to the Canadian Visa Office indicated on your application.

You and all of your family members who are 18 years of age and older and who are not permanent residents or Canadian citizens will have to provide:

- a valid police certificate, or
- a police clearance, or
- a record of no information.

These documents are to be provided for each country other than Canada, in which you have lived for six consecutive months or longer since reaching the age of 18.

Note: If you or your family members were under 18 years of age (16 years of age in certain jurisdictions) for the entire time you lived in a particular country, you do not need to provide a police certificate for that country.

You may begin to gather your police certificates before submitting your application to the CIO. Although you will not submit the police certificate to the CIO, you must be ready to submit them to a visa office if your application is recommended for further assessment at a Canadian visa office. When you submit the application to the visa office please ensure that your certificates were not issued more than three months before you submitted your application to the CIO.

For applicants requiring multiple police certificates, please be certain these documents can be produced at the time of the submission of your application to the Canadian visa office.

If the original certificate is not in English or French, submit both the certificate and the original copy of a translation prepared by an accredited translator.

Unless otherwise specified on our website, it is your responsibility to contact the police or relevant authorities. When doing so, you may have to:

- pay a fee for the service, and
- provide information or documentation such as:
 - photographs,
 - fingerprints,
 - your addresses and periods of residence in the country or territory.

CIC will also do background checks to determine if there are grounds upon which you and your family members may be inadmissible to Canada.

Please consult our website for specific and up-to-date information on how to obtain police certificates from any country.

Translation of documents

Any document that is not in English or French must be accompanied by:

- the English or French translation; and
- an affidavit from the person who completed the translation; and
- a certified copy of the document.

Note: An affidavit is a document on which the translator has sworn, in the presence of a commissioner authorized to administer oaths in the country in which the translator is living, that the contents of their translation are a true translation and representation of the contents of the original document.

Translations by family members are not acceptable.

Factors that facilitate processing

There are certain things you can do to help ensure that your application is processed as promptly as possible by the office:

- make sure that all the documentation and information requested is provided at the time your application is made (submitted to the visa office).
- make sure that you notify the visa office promptly of any and all changes to your mailing address, family situation, or any other information that is important to your application, such as additional education or work experience.
- refrain from making unnecessary inquiries to the visa office regarding the status of your case.

Factors that may delay processing

The following factors may delay the processing of your application:

- unclear photocopies of documents
- documents not accompanied by a certified English or French translation
- information and documents provided required independent verification
- a medical condition that may require additional tests or consultations
- a criminal or security problem
- family situations such as impending divorce, or custody or maintenance issues, or completion of a legal adoption
- consultation is required with other offices in Canada and abroad

H&C considerations

The ministerial instructions do not permit the consideration of humanitarian and compassionate (H&C) requests for exemption from immigration legislation, unless the applicant meets the requirements for processing under one of the three categories identified in the Federal Skilled Worker class.

This means that requests for exemptions on H&C grounds should only be submitted to a Visa Office after you have been recommended for processing by the CIO.

Note: Requests in other classes will continue to be processed at Visa Offices.

Permanent resident status

If your application is successful, you and your family members will receive permanent resident visas. You will become permanent residents of Canada when you move to Canada within the validity of your visa (s). Some conditions will apply:

 - You may leave and re-enter Canada as often as you wish.

As permanent residents, you and your family members will have the right to:

- live, study and work in Canada for as long as you remain permanent residents
 - access most social benefits accorded to Canadian citizens (see "Limitations")
 - apply for Canadian citizenship, and if granted, apply for a Canadian passport once you have been a legal permanent resident for three of the four previous years

Limitations

There are a few limitations on permanent residents:

- You cannot vote in certain elections.
 - You may be ineligible for certain jobs requiring high-level security clearances.
 - If you or any of your family members commit a serious crime, you or your family members may be stripped of permanent resident status and deported from Canada.

Obligations

As permanent residents, you will also have the same legal obligations as Canadians, such as paying taxes and respecting all federal, provincial, and municipal laws.

All new permanent residents will be issued a card as part of the process. Cards will be mailed to your home address soon after you become a permanent resident. For more information on the Permanent Resident Card, visit our website.
